

2 DAY CONTEST AT BARCS

Bay Area Radio Control Society
(BARCS)

Proudly presents the

14th Annual

“Pattern by the Bay”

Located at the BARCS Field in Richmond, CA.

Saturday and Sunday - May 1st and May 2nd, 2009

Sportsman, Intermediate, Advanced, Masters and FAI (P-11) will be flown. Awards to 3rd place in each class. This is an AMA sanctioned event so proof of AMA membership must be provided when registering. Sportsman class is allowed to fly any AMA legal airplane – 98db noise limitation on ALL airplanes. $35 for all classes except Sportsman which is $20.

Contestant judging will be used!

Registration is at 8:00 am on Saturday. Flying will start promptly at 9.00am or when the sun is out of the way. We will be BBQing at the field on Saturday and Sunday – hamburgers/hotdogs, chips and soda will be available at the field. If you don't want a hamburger/hotdog then PLEASE bring your own lunch!! Sodas/water will be available at the field for purchase. Camping is allowed at the field (no hookups available).

2 flight lines will be used. Sportsman, Intermediate and Advanced will fly on one flight line and Masters and FAI will fly on the other flight line (this may change depending on the number of entries). Please see the map on the reverse side for details on how to get to the BARCS field. The field has a large shade structure located in the pit area. Bring warm clothing, as it may be overcast/foggy in the morning. For motel/hotel information please call the CD below.
